

St. Cecilia's Public School
Editorial Club
Extempore Competition (English)
Senior Wing (Classes IX – X)

The Editorial Club of St. Cecilia's Public School conducted an Extempore Competition for classes IX and X on 12.04.2023. There were two participants from each section and overall, sixteen students volunteered to take part.

The competition was presided by Respected Madam Principal, Senior Coordinator, judges and teachers. Entire class IX was sitting in the audience.

The competition began with the announcers greeting everybody. It was followed by the explanation of the rules for the competition. Participants had to speak for one and a half to two minutes on the topics given to them on the spot. They offered their valuable inputs on varied topics such as Why Plastic pollution is such a big deal?, Technology: boon or bane, Why is it important to laugh for good health?, Dealing with exam stress, etc.

Participants tried their best to frame their opinions in a coherent manner and present those to the audience in an impressive way. Once all the participants had spoken, Respected Madam Principal appreciated the students' efforts and encouraged others to be more active and engage in similar activities in future for refining their skills.

The event ended with a loud applause for all as the judges announced the results.