

St. Cecilia's Public School Story Writing Competition

Stories create community, enables us to see through the eyes of other people and opens us to the claims of others.

Stories are the creative conversation of life itself

On July 20th, Editorial Club organized a story writing competition where students were shown pictures in a sequence wherein students had to write about those pictures and create a story of their own using their creative and critical senses. In the given time limit they were asked to portray their best creative side.

It not only helped the students to develop creativity in different aspects of life. It also helped them improve their grammatical skills. It helped them broaden their horizons and think out of the box. It, furthermore, made them develop their analytical and critical skills. It widened their understanding towards fictional and non-fictional concepts.

Students truly found it interesting, captivating and made them learn a lot. Their responses – stories gave an impression of their highly creative minds.
